SHERIFF BECKER ACCUSED, 3 DEPUTIES AMONG 6 INDICTED BY OAKLAND JURY

'ROUND

Didn't we guess right about that black hat several months ago? Just what is going on underneath that skyblue is another question, but Tsar insists that he is going to step right out in the open in a short time and tell us what it is all about.

And now we have been reliably informed that the mysterious telephone call we received around midnight several days ago was the real goods. At least it seems that the person who called us was really the one who intends to enter the political race. He isn't sure which one of four offices he will try for.

That makes two of the local boys who are getting all set to pluck one of those golden plums from the county tree within the next six months.

Let 'er go boys, the more the merrier.

And now there are mysterious mouthings from the boys who think they are in the know that Silent Cal has something else in mind besides a view of the country in his western visit.

If Coolidge is repairing his political fences he certainly isn't making much noise about it. But then, if you don't know it already, our former president has always been somewhat quiet in his methods.

With every indication that there is going to be concerted war against the "gang," it looks as though the voters in this county are going to have plenty of material to pick from this fall.

There are approximately 200 days left before we march to the polls and there are any number of things that can happen within that length of time.

If half of the things predicted occur, there will be an entirely new complexion on the political face of the county by this time next year.

Won't the voters of Oakland have a wonderful time at the polls next election? With the grand jury threatening to indict most everybody in office it looks as though the citizens of that community will have a big order on their hands.

Just about the time the boys in power had everything running their own way someone had to step in and mess things all up—and what a mess it appears to be at the present time.

All seems quiet along the Albany front. This community which washed its political linens in the courts, press, and on the streets for several months is peculiarly quiet. Maybe it just the lull before the storm.

The storm clouds are already gathering in El Cerrito. In fact a few bolts of lightning have already struck their mark and it looks as though the rumbling of political thunder will be on in full swing in a short time.

Oakland Police
Battle Rioters

OAKLAND, Feb. 28—(UPI)—Two hundred unemployed workers battled police today at a downtown corner when the officers endeavored to disperse a crowd listening to alleged communist agitators.

Seven men, including two policemen, and one woman, were injured.

Policemen reserves were called before the battle ended.

Several arrested men stated that they were members of a communist organization known as the "Trade Unity League."

OFFICER HURT
AT PITTSBURG

CHICAGO, Feb. 28—(UPI)—The lion had the best of it in the midwest tonight when February faded into March in a salvo of snow, bitter cold and icy gales.

Heavy snowstorms along the Canadian border bulged over into the United States and piled mountain-high drifts in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Eight inches of snow fell at Pierre, S. D., by nightfall and more was predicted. In Minnesota the blizzards left tremendous packs of snow over roads and railroad lines.

Automobile travel was impossible while many trains were hours late.

Further south the weather was clear and temperatures were not quite so cold. The weather bureau predicted a momentary touch of warm weather, to be followed tomorrow by another cold wave.

Loaded with a general cargo for Seattle and northwest points, the steamer Whitney Olson of the McCormick line sailed from the Richmond Inner harbor yesterday afternoon.

According to Charles Engle, manager of the Parr-Richmond terminals here, the McCormick line will make Richmond a regular port of call. Heretofore, the line has been sending an occasional ship here.

All of the regular Pacific Coast lines, with the exception of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, now have placed Richmond on their lists as a regular port of call.

GOED SLAYER
PAYS DEATH PENALTY

OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY,
Columbus, Feb. 28—(UPI)—Dr. James Howard Snook, who philandered and then killed the object of his love, was put to death to-night in the electric chair.

His victim, Theora Hix, second year medical student at Ohio State University, was killed last June, allegedly because she tried to dominate Snook's life.

Snook confessed the murder and after one of the most sensational but sordid trials in criminal history, was convicted and condemned to die.

Dies Calmly

The state completed the death pact tonight, and Snook, his iron nerve holding up superbly, died without a quiver.

He was brought from a tiny cell adjoining the death house at 7:05 p.m. At 7:06 he was strapped in the chair and the current was tearing through his body.

Four minutes later, at 7:10, he was pronounced dead.

LION WINS
IN MIDWEST

E. A. Burg, Richmond real estate man stated yesterday that he would file court action in an attempt to gain custody of his eight year old daughter Martha Ann, whose custody was granted to his wife, Mrs. Grace Cox Burg, by a divorce court in Reno early in February.

Burg's announcement followed information he said he received from Waco, Tex., that the former Mrs. Burg had been married to L. J. Roberts, of Los Angeles and Oakland. Roberts is a member of the firm of Roberts and Robinson Construction company which built the north end of the Oakland estuary tube.

According to Burg, Roberts has been a friend of the family for a number of years but left for Reno about the same time Mrs. Burg obtained her decree.

Roberts obtained a divorce from Emily C. Roberts in Reno late in January shortly before Mrs. Burg obtained her decree.

The couple have one son, 16 years of age. Mrs. Roberts and her son are now making their home in Redondo Beach.

Burg stated last night that he did not contest the divorce suit in Reno and permitted the court to grant the custody of the child to Mrs. Burg. "Because of recent development however, I think it best that the child be placed in my custody," Burg stated last night in announcing his plan of court action.

Several real estate firms are considering the construction of three or four homes each. When these have been occupied another group of a similar number will be started. In this way local builders hope to prevent an overproduction of new homes.

Inquiries at real estate offices indicate that some of the executives of new firms to locate here are already scouting around for homes. Several plans to build while others are searching for homes already constructed.

LINER LEAVES FOR SEATTLE

Boy On Scooter
Hit By Key Train

BERKELEY, Feb. 28—(UPI)—Gordon Richardson, 4, was in a critical condition at the Alta Bates hospital today, following an accident when the boy's "scooter" carried him down a driveway and into the path of a speeding Key System train.

The lad is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Richardson.

Physicians said that he sustained a skull fracture and had only a slight chance for recovery.

RICHMOND HOME BUILDING ON INCREASE
HIGHER

Richmond building, especially for bungalows and other dwellings is on the up-grade according to records on file in the office of A. J. Harley, city building inspector.

Seven new homes were built in Richmond during the month of February this year as compared with five for the same period last year. The homes are also of a better average grade the records indicate. The five new homes last year cost $16,800 or an average of $3,360 per home while the seven homes constructed this year cost $24,250 or an average of $3,465 each. Not only that but the cost of construction has declined since this time last year and consequently the homes are of a higher standard than the figures would indicate.

BURG PLANNING
FIGHT FOR TOT

In addition to the buildings actually started during the last month it is known that two large apartment houses are being considered. Plans have already been drawn and are being studied. In neither case however has the exact location of the apartment house been definitely decided upon.

Plans for a number of individual homes have also been prepared and construction is to be started within a short time.

Real estate and building contractors are swinging into action for the summer building program.

Although it is generally admitted that there will be a heavy influx of workers here before the end of the year builders are approaching the problem cautiously.

Several real estate firms are considering the construction of three or four homes each.

When these have been occupied another group of a similar number will be started. In this way local builders hope to prevent an overproduction of new homes.

LOVER SLAYS
GIRL, SELF

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28—(UPI)—A young woman who rejected proposals of marriage was shot and killed by her suitor while she was entertaining him in the home of John C. Piver, president of the San Francisco Yacht club.

Having lost his appeal to the State Supreme Court from a bribery conviction, he tried to induce Sheriff W. I. Traeger to transfer him to San Quentin prison quietly next Tuesday. The sheriff told him, however, that he would have to go next Friday with the usual consignment of prisoners.

"Let me go without all the hula-halo," Keyes pleaded. "I don't want the flashlights and the swarm of reporters."

Some sobbed quietly and others sat silently—great names in a wealthy industry, but today weak to respond to his words. Taft recognized his son, and smiled wanly as the younger man came to his bedside.

Dr. Francis Hagner and Thomas Clayton, after morning and afternoon visits at the Taft home, said Taft was slightly weaker and had been able to take little nourishment. This was taken to indicate that Taft was slipping gradually into death.

A bulletin issued by his physician said:

"The condition of former Chief Justice Taft is practically unchanged since this morning's bulletin."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(UPI)—

The remarkable vitality of William Howard Taft still was saving the day which his physicians said was only a matter of hours.

The former chief justice was cheered by the visit of his son, Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, but was too weak to respond to his words. Taft recognized his son, and smiled wanly as the younger man came to his bedside.

Dr. Francis Hagner and Thomas Clayton, after morning and afternoon visits at the Taft home, said Taft was slightly weaker and had been able to take little nourishment. This was taken to indicate that Taft was slipping gradually into death.

The Lips That Sprout Whiskers!

MEN will have to admit, if they are honest, that there is very little feminine interference, or even criticism, concerning the way men dress and look. A man can—and frequently does—wear a collar which saws his throat, a belt which cuts him in two, a derby which makes him bald; he can swelter and stifle in summer. A coat, a vest, a high-collared and long-sleeved shirt, thick shoes, woolen golf socks; he can cling to uninteresting blues and browns and grays. And dress in the evening as cheerfully as a crow; he can wear perpetually what are, in effect, the same styles—for a change of half an inch in the width of a lapel, or the position of a pocket. Does nothing to vary the sad and deadly monotony of the masculine get-up!

Any woman who has ever seen a costume play thinks how men used to decorate the landscape, and what dull, drab figures they now make! Still, that's their business—

And, barring an occasional plaintive plea, to the man she loves best, to try something just a little less "conservative" in the way of ties—The modern woman sets a splendid example. By letting him go his own gait in the matter of appearance—Even though he is forever butting in and telling her how long to wear her skirts, and what's the matter with her bath suit.

Nonetheless, there is a limit. To good-humored feminine tolerance, and it's going to be reached with one swift leap! If American men adopt the new foreign fashion of beards and whiskers! It apparently started in Austria. But it has got as far as London, and, if you ask New York girls, it will go no farther! First, the Congress of Austrian Hair-dressers announced that mutton-chop whiskers were what the smart young man will be wearing. Big, bushy, hairy, or windblown chin-beards. Since women, according to the hair-dressers, persist in wearing short hair, men must wear some long hair, for the sake of business.

Next, came a London despatch asserting that young men who are the pride of Piccadilly are forgetting to shave, and deliberately cultivating the Spade and the Hanging Gardens of Babylon beard. Walter Stoneman, famous British photographer, hails the change with rejoicing. Because, according to him, beards make great men look greater. However, he gave away his own case in his next remarks. "Beards," he admitted, "cover such a multitude of sins."

"Double weak protruding or receding." Women are the fiercest and most implacable foes of beards! They know that a beard is a mask. And they pride themselves on their ability to read a man's face like a book. Therefore, the beard had to go. This time, however, it has come to stay.

But women—in this country, anyhow—that have something to say about that. The ease with which the beardless face can be read. Is not the ONLY reason why women prefer it—It's easy on them, in at least ONE other respect. "Those lips that sprout whiskers"—the modern girl says—"shall never touch mine!" No, no, women simply can't allow men to go hirsute. Beards are for goats. And isn't the American man enough of a goat now? If you don't believe it, ask him!

The Telephone Operator has many things to do and I know them all. Besides operating the board, she receives callers, signs for incoming packages, types when necessary, makes up pretty every one in a while, and writes a daily (her own name for daily letter) to the boy friend in college, who never

Among the late winter vegetables none is more flavorful and downright delicious than the humble Hubbard squash, inexpensive and adaptable to culinary demands.

Boiled, cooked to insure a dry vegetable rather than a watery one and careful seasoning to bring out the natural squash flavor are the corner stones of the Hubbard squash's gustatory charm. The cook should be familiar with the family's liking for it.

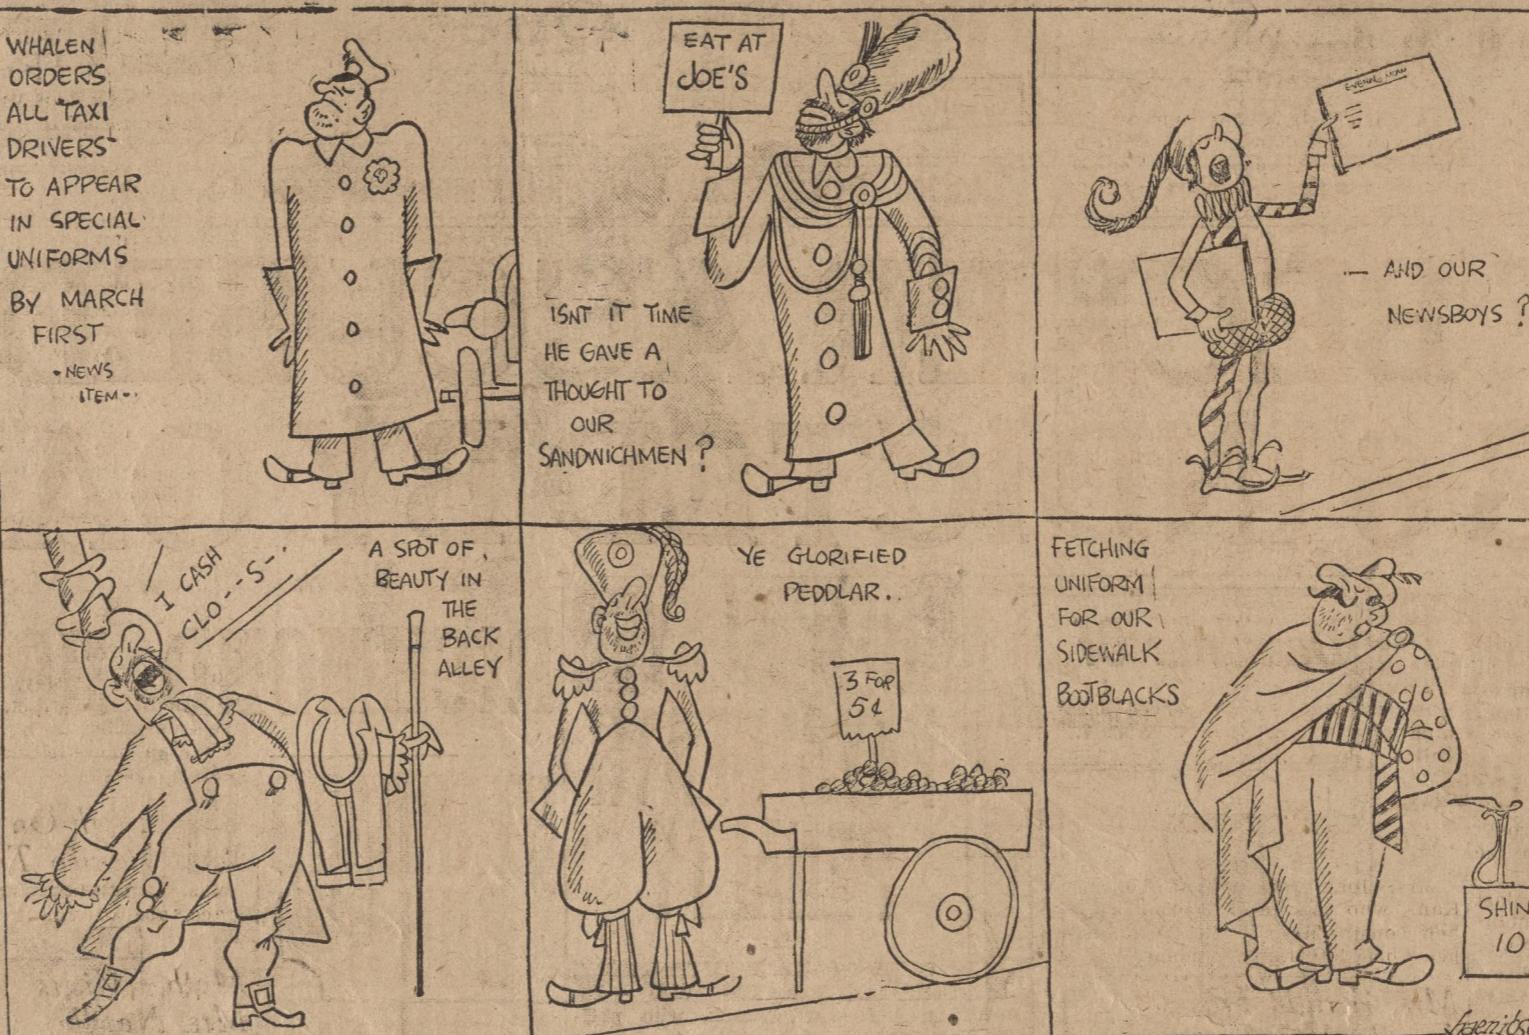

Hubbard squash, like many vegetables, is most flavorful when cooked whole. Split it in half, remove the seeds, add a dash of cayenne, buttered crumbs to cover. Baking time: One to one and one-half hours in a moderate oven. Servings: Four.

So Different!

RECENTLY I met a woman who said: "My fifteen-year-old daughter is quite a problem. Her mind is entirely filled with clothes, boys and good times." "Perfectly natural," I assured this troubled mother. Later in the day I met another mother who complained "My girl is sixteen and she isn't interested in anything but school and intellectual pursuits. Boys and parties do not attract her." I explained to this mother that this was absolutely normal for her daughter—that a girl of her type might never be very much interested in the things I mother cared about. "On the other hand," I added, "this girl may still be immature and may develop a keen interest in the opposite sex later on. Some children mature much later than others."

Sometimes we find differences just as startling as the above in the same family. "My children are just opposite," innumerable parents say.

We have to take our children as we find them and not attempt to make them over. As we do, we shall all grow weary and impatient. Children differ as greatly as flowers. Some are daisies, others roses and violets and geraniums—entirely unlike, but all beautiful!

The daisy is entitled to be a daisy. Why try to make it into a rose? Let it, instead, help it to become the flower it was meant to be.

Because we prefer studious people is not sufficient reason to try to make a book worm of our Lilliput. To endeavor to interest her in some intellectual pursuit is good, but it fails, though, but further we must not go. Likewise, because we hate "blue stockings," and would like our girl to be a society belle gives us no right to steer her from her cherished dreams. To awaken some interest in her, we may be good for her, of course, but we must allow her to follow her natural bent.

Because Billy is not as clever as his sister, Florence, is not his fault. By comparing his poor achievement with her better one will not help him one whit. On the contrary, it will anger him and make him dislike his sister. He may become just as successful a man, because of other worthwhile traits, as she does, a woman.

Why is it necessary that May be as talented musically as her cousin, or Bob as a good athlete as his older brother? Let us let our children from our prejudices and let us strive to understand and help each one to splendid manhood and womanhood.

The World's Window

By Pierre Van Paassen

PARIS, February.

Island" deserved any further attention, Joseph Delteil said: "You read France, but you never reread him." Then there was Blaise Cendrars, a contemporary poet, who wrote that France was a "huge bore." Andre Gide thought him "not a writer of any considerable importance." Another said that France never created anything worth while, and that he was content to delve in the dust of the past, and so on and so forth. Hardly a good word for the "Maitre" who died five years ago. But Anatole France is still read in France and abroad. To many his light ironic phrases are still sweet music, full of grace. He may not be a profound philosopher as one of the latter-day critics observes, but everybody is not on the lookout for ponderous theses on imponderable subjects. The disdain of the moderns for the classic that France was to the very marrow of his bones, does make one wish that they in turn had charmed so many hundreds of thousands of readers in all parts of the globe. Their criticism reminds one somehow of mosquitoes plaguing a lion.

Sport's Flannels

BRIGHTEST colored flannel is one of the most attractive early spring sports frocks of the two-piece or tuck-in variety. A new model in nautical-blue is made with short sleeves, a sailor collar of white pique and trimmed with silver buttons. It might be called the Peter Thompson in modern dress.

Last fall another man advised me to buy a stock at $3. It went into the hands of a receiver just after his arrival.

No, I didn't get any.

NEW COUTURIER JEWELRY

CHIC new offerings in the jewelry field include the graceful long ear rings illustrated, of carved carnelian drops on slender gold chains. Five-strand pearl necklaces are smart. This one is caught at either side under a clasp of dull gold and seed pearls. Onyx is used with silver for an interestingly curved ring. The square wrist watch at upper left is set off by a design in black onyx and brilliants and is worn on a black grosgrain strap. For sports wear is the novelty necklace at lower left, called "zebra," which combines black and white striped beads with square-cut silver ones. For wear with lounging pajamas is the necklace at the right, alternating squares of black onyx, jade and lapis.

If His Face Looks Boiled

THERE'S one young man we know whose face, in winter, looks as if it hurts him. So red is it, so altogether raw looking from forehead to chin and ear to ear. With his color more fortunately distributed this lad would be almost handsome. But as things are, the girl friend sees not to see the sunning lines of his garments—or of himself—the dancing lights in his blue eyes or the gleam of his smile when he smiles. At least he feels that they see only his flaming face.

Not tender youth nor the habit of washing his face in cold water. Highly seasoned foods, for example, piping hot soups, strong tea and coffee. As a matter of fact, food or drink of any sort should be taken in moderation by people whose faces are given to flaring up after meals.

A passion for cleanliness leads many people into treating their skins with absolute cruelty. It is both unfair and unnecessary to scrub the entire skin with a stiff-bristled complexion brush or to polish it with a coarse textured towel. And yet there are people who do both. The penalty is usually an unattractive glow.

A French magazine recently asked a dozen or so of the most prominent writers in France whether, in their opinion, the work of Anatole France merited the attention of posterity.

The replies received must greatly astonish France's admirers in America, whose number is legion. M. Paul Morand thought Anatole France "an old collector of second-hand chautbles, no more." Andre Maurois did not think the author of "Penguin

'OWN DESIRE' DRAWS LARGE CROWD

The line of persons waiting to get into the Fox-California theater yesterday for the opening of Norma Shearer's new all talking indicated that Miss Shearer, like the proverbial king, can do no wrong.

This intelligently attractive Metro Goldwyn Mayer star has acquired an ever increasing group of admirers since her appearance first in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" and then in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney." In "Their Own Desire" Miss Shearer gives every indication of repeating her former successes.

The story deals with a strained domestic situation in which the desire of a father for companionship a little more lively than that of a faded wife barely prevents the daughter of the estranged pair from marrying the man she loves.

Miss Shearer, of course, plays the daughter, Lally, who finds her father (Lewis Stone) in the arms of the other woman (Helene Millard.) In desperation, Lally takes her mother (Belle Bennett) away to a summer resort in the hope that absence will make father's heart grow fonder.

But here fate plays her usual trick and it turns out that it is Lally's heart that grows fonder. The difficulty lies in that the recipient of the fondness happens to be the son of the other woman. The untangling of this variation of the eternal triangle provides enough opportunity for dramatic touches, suspense and action to put this bill across as first rate screen entertainment.

As in her preceding vehicles Miss Shearer is fortunate in having an exceptionally capable supporting cast. Lewis Stone gives his usual irreproachable performance; Belle Bennett portrays the mother with the same sincerity as in the popular "Stella Dallas"; while Helene Millard gives just the right touch to the role of "the other woman," who turns out to be not such a bad sort after all.

A Mickey Mouse cartoon and an Our Gang comedy complete the bill.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless medicine. It won't cause distress of gas pains or gripes." Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

Chinese Invade "Closed" Section Of S. F., Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28—(U.P.)—Charges that the boundary line of Chinatown have been broken and Orientals are invading the most exclusive section of the city were made here today by D. E. Dodge, president of the Nob Hill Improvement Association.

Nob Hill has long been the site for homes of the most wealthy and prominent persons in San Francisco. It towers directly above the quaint Oriental section and the Italian quarter of North Beach, but the lines between them has been clearly defined.

The improvement association made a formal appeal to Russell Wolden, city assessor for a general reduction of assessments on all property in the district. The only allegation was that invasion of Chinese on the once exclusive land had decreased its value.

Dodge said a petition was being circulated among property owners in his district asking them not to sell or lease land to any race other than Caucasians.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28—(U.P.)—A blimp and ten airplanes crisscrossed the south slope of the San Bernardino mountains south of Lake Arrowhead today in the belief that it was there that a Western Air Express plane was forced down or crashed Sunday.

LOCAL "Y" IN CALIFORNIA TODAY

Richmond's Y. M. C. A. will be well represented in the finals of the state Y. M. C. A. California basketball competition today at San Francisco.

The tourney will open this morning at 10 o'clock in the Commerce high school building on Hayes street, between Van Ness and Franklin, where the Richmond 50 pounders will meet the Merced quintet. If they vanquish the Merced boys, the local lightweights will clash with the winners of the Stockton-San Francisco game at 2 o'clock at the Commerce high school.

The Richmond Y. M. C. A. will tangle with the San Francisco Y. M. C. A. five at 3 o'clock at the Commerce high school gym. The winners of this contest will meet the Stockton boys at 8 o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A. building at 220 Golden Gate avenue.

Richmond's 120 pound team will meet the winner of the Stockton-San Francisco clash at 4 o'clock in the Commerce high school gym.

The Richmond Y. M. C. A. unlimited boys will tangle with the Stockton aggregation at 6 o'clock in the Central Y. M. C. A. gym for the title of the unlimited division.

The Richmond Y. M. C. A. has produced several of the best "Y" teams in the East Bay district this year. The only local Y. M. C. A. teams eliminated from the California competition before today's final were the 90 and 110 pound squads.

The local athletes who will take part in the Y. M. C. A. contest are: Bill Howell, Otto Johnson, Tony Santella, Willie Hillier, Bill Black, Al Jewell, Al Abbott, Howard Sprague and Clarence Brown.

Richmond will be represented in the unlimited clash by: Al Linstedt, Merle Baskett, Carl Drexel, George Miller, Hugo Boschetto, Ernie Johnson, Henry Gillan and Ivor Pimlott.

The Richmond 120 pounders are: Ted Faust, Mario Bertoni, Tom Toyota, Chris Sanaella, Gordon Williams, Orville Wakefield, Bill Collins, Milton Alexander, and Wayne Jackson.

The boys who will play in the 80 pound contest today are: Harold Smerfert, Harold Johnson, Thomas Costello, Earl Edwards, Edward Re, Jack Thomas, and Chester Mueller.

The Richmond athletes will be accompanied by Reynold Carlson, director of the Richmond Y. M. C. A.

ELK GOLFERS PLAY TODAY

Richmond Elks will don their knickers, polish their niblicks, and lie themselves to the Carquinez Golf club today to compete in the annual Richmond-Berkeley Elks golf tournament. More than 50 local golfers are enrolled in the meet, while approximately the same number are expected to represent the Berkeley lodge.

Four prizes will be presented for the lowest scores on each team. The awards will be made at a banquet to follow the meet in the Carquinez clubhouse.

Judge A. A. Alstrom is Richmond's chairman for the tournament, while Vernon P. Peck was appointed chairman for the Berkeley leg.

The annual golf tournament always arouses much rivalry and enthusiasm, and has been closely fought in the past.

Stetson Rallies To Beat Goodrich

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28.—(UPI) —Coming back from a knockdown in the first round in which he took a nine count, Frankie Stetson, local pride, was awarded a decision over Jimmie Goodrich, former lightweight champion after 10 rounds here tonight.

This decision was greeted favorably by most spectators.

Tommy Bennett technically knocked out Dusty Miller, 4; Natie Brown, knocked out Ray Bunker, one; Bill Cusick knocked out Varsity Brooks, two; Elmer Mason defeated Bobbie Roberts, 4; Steve Brodie knocked out Speedy Crank, three.

Seawright Will Attend Net Banquet

W. L. Seawright, president of the Richmond Tennis association, will represent the local tennis club at the annual banquet of the California Lawn Tennis association in San Francisco today. The dinner will be held at the Bohemian club in San Francisco. Plans will be laid at the meeting for state inter-club competition that is to begin soon.

Half Of Big League Clubs Under New Management

COREY NINE TO PLAY PT.&T. TOMORROW

The Corey Garage nine will cross bats with the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph aggregation of Oakland tomorrow afternoon on the El Cerrito diamond.

John Babich, promising young twirler, is scheduled to chuck for the Coreys tomorrow, while Rosario will perform behind the platter for the locals.

This season has been an especially successful one for the Corey garagemen, whose fielding and swatting have thrown fear into the ranks of the teams that they have met thus far.

In their last contest, Babich pelted a no hit, no run game to give the Coreys a 2 to 0 victory over the Ausetian club of Oakland. If Babich's arm is in as fine condition tomorrow as it was in the battle with the Agnetians, the telephone boys will have small chance of victory.

The contest is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock on the El Cerrito lot.

Plans Started For Post Season Baseball Series

Plans are being formed for a post-season baseball series of three games to be played between the annual Richmond-Berkeley Elks golf tournament. More than 50 local golfers are enrolled in the meet, while approximately the same number are expected to represent the Berkeley lodge.

Four prizes will be presented for the lowest scores on each team. The awards will be made at a banquet to follow the meet in the Carquinez clubhouse.

Judge A. A. Alstrom is Richmond's chairman for the tournament, while Vernon P. Peck was appointed chairman for the Berkeley leg.

The annual golf tournament always arouses much rivalry and enthusiasm, and has been closely fought in the past.

Smith Fights In Sox Camp

Giants Buy New Fielder

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 28.—(UPI) —Johnny Mostil, former White Sox outfielder, was purchased by the Giants today from the Toledo American association team. Manager McGraw said he would use Mostil in centerfield in case Eddie Roush remains a holdout.

HIGH NINE WILL OPEN SEASON FRIDAY

The baseball season will open at Richmond union high school next Friday when the local high school nine clashes with the University high school aggregation of Oakland. The scene of the contest has not yet been decided upon.

Several former members of the local high school team are expected to see service with the R. U. H. S. outfit again this year, including Joe Viano, John Rosano and Louis Baile. A large number of new recruits will probably be on the Richmond union high school lineup when it goes into action next Friday. Coaches Ivan Hill and Phil Hempler have been working the boys hard for several weeks and have now a fast diamond squad at their disposal.

Track season is also in the offing at Richmond union high school. The annual inter-class track meet was formerly scheduled to take place yesterday but was postponed because of the muddy condition of the field and track. It is expected to be held sometime during the next two weeks.

The handball teams of Oakland and Berkeley will also compete in today's tournament for the championship of the eastbay division of the Califoniad. Today's contest will be restricted to Y. M. C. A. members under 25 years of age. A tournament for older men will be held later in the season.

The Richmond Boys' Hi-Y will send its budding orators to Berkeley May 16 to compete for the oratory honors of the Y. M. C. A. Califoniad. The contest will be held in the Berkeley Y. M. C. A. building. Oakland will also compete at the meet. Richmond will also be represented in a debating tournament of the Califoniad the same day at Berkeley.

A women's tournament is also being held by the Richmond Tennis association to choose the members of the Richmond women's team in inter-club competition.

MOTORS NINE IN CRUCIAL GAME TOMORROW

The Thomas Motors will attempt to stay in a first place tie in the Oakland Winter baseball league when it clashes with the P. S. E. A. nine of Oakland tomorrow afternoon on the First street diamond at two o'clock.

A peculiar situation has arisen in the league as a result of San Pablo's victory over the Oakland Eagles last Sunday. At present, the Motors, Eagles, P. S. E. A. and San Leandro are all tied for first position. Next Sunday, the two teams emerging victorious from tomorrow's contests will clash in the second round finals. If the Motors fail to capture the second round title, they will be champions of this season's league. If another team gains the title for the second round, a playoff for the league championship will be necessary between the Motors and the second round winners.

The twirling for the Motors will be performed by young Doyle Taylor, who is scheduled to report for action at the Missions training camp Monday. The receiving for the locals will be done tomorrow by Borreani.

Braves Squad Nearly Complete

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 28.—(UPI) —Manager Bill McKeon's Boston Braves squad is almost complete and infield and outfield workouts will be held daily beginning tomorrow. Curtis Awarded Prize For Ads

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—(UPI) —The Harvard Advertising awards jury announced tonight that Cyrus H. K. Curtis, publisher, had won the gold medal for "distinguished contemporary service to advertising."

"Strict adherence throughout his distinguished career as a publisher to the requirement, which he pioneered, of high standards of reliability in advertising" was given as the reason for the award.

JACK CLAIMS HEAVYWEIGHT CROWN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28.—(UPI) —Jack Sharkey claims the heavyweight championship of the world. Jimmy Johnston claims his decision and Miami, disappointed over last night's fiasco at Madison Square Garden's new stadium here, claims to want to hear the last of the whole sorry business as quickly as possible.

The claim advanced by Sharkey is a reasonable one, since he has met and beaten the best available opponents, but in view of last night's affair, in which he won on a technical knockout after scenes of great disorder and frantic claims of foul, the American public will not be satisfied until the Boston tal has met someone else, preferably Max Schmeling of Germany.

Jimmy Johnston told the United Press tonight that he would demand the minutes of the meeting at which insinuations were made that this last big heavyweight battle was "in the bag" for Sharkey.

More Talk

The talkative little manager said he would insist upon a hearing before Commissioner Reynolds, who has the final word in the matter.

But the commissioner wasn't enthusiastic over this phase of the matter. He said that if Scott and Johnston could produce evidence of improprieties he would call a hearing, but that in his opinion there had been no evidence produced to warrant holding up the purses of the contestants.

Sharkey, accordingly, gets $40,000 and Scott $32,000 for their five minutes of fighting, and the heavyweight situation returns to its former status of talk, talk, talk.

Sharkey Fighting

The gross receipts were $190,000, or just above one-half what officials of Madison Square Garden had claimed in advance.

Miamians still hold against Sharkey's sorry showing against Young Stirling a year ago. It seems a bit unjust to Jack, this attitude of the locals and transients, for the Bostonian was in there fighting from the opening bell.

It was Scott's ability as a boxer which led Sharkey to adopt his tactics and play for the body. Phil was cleverly blocking Jack's wild swings to the head, and this decided the Bostonian to switch his attack to the Englishman's stomach.

SHARKEY WILL BATTLE MAXIE

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(UPI) —The New York State Athletic commission today accepted Lou Magnolia's decision in the Jack Sharkey-Phil Scott contest and announced that the British heavyweight had been eliminated from the heavyweight title tournament.

"We will go through with the Sharkey-Schmeling fight as planned," Commissioner William Muldoon said. "If either Sharkey or Schmeling refuses to go through with the bout the other will be declared champion by default."

JUNIOR CAGERS SPLIT TWO GAMES

The Roosevelt junior high school varsity lost to the Garfield junior high school cagers of Berkeley by a score of 16 to 14 yesterday afternoon at the Roosevelt gymnasium. The Roosevelt 115 pounders defeated the Garfield athletes 12 to 7.

The varsity contest was one of the fastest games played this season in the junior high inter-school cage competition. The varsity Teddies showed

Sundays or Evenings by Appointment

 Copyright, 1922, by Frederick A. Stokes Company
 "The Green Goddess," starring George Arliss, is a Warner Bros. Vitaphone picturization of this novel.

 SYNOPSIS
 Drink and dissipation on the part of Major Anthony Crespin has estranged him from his wife, Lucilla. Dr. Basil Traherne, who had been the Major's "fag" at school, is in love with Lucilla, but keeps Crespin from being cashiered for disgracing his regiment and tries to cure him of the drink habit. While taking them in his airplane to visit their children at Pakahi in the southern Himalayas, he loses his way in a fog and has to make a forced landing in the little known and inhospitable kingdom of Rukh whose Raja welcomes them with assumed graciousness.

 A smile of new significance came in the narrow black eyes. "Well," he said amusely, "you have made a sensation here, I can assure you. My people have never seen an aeroplane. They are not sure, simple souls, whether you are gods or demons. But the fact of your having descended in the precincts of a temple of our local goddess—he motioned his hand towards the idol—"allow me to introduce you to her—is considered highly significant."

"I hope, sir," Crespin ventured, "that we shall find no difficulty in obtaining transport back to civilization."

"I know when I'm well off, if that's what Your Highness means," the man said, still without looking up.

"I mean a little more than that," the Raja said quietly, "but no matter. I have sometimes thought of instituting a peacock in order that I might raise Watkins to it. But I mustn't let my admiration for British institutions carry me too far.... Those scoundrels of bearers are taking a long time, Watkins."

"The lady's litters 'ad to 'ave fresh curtains, Your Highness," the servant explained. "They won't be a minute now."

CHAPTER XIV

THE Raja turned to Crespin. "You were speaking of transport, Major," then to Traherne, "is your machine past repair, Dr. Traherne?"

"Utterly, I'm afraid."

"Let us look at it," the Raja suggested, turning towards it. "Ah, yes," the Raja said after a near glance, "propeller smashed—planes crumpled up."

"Under carriage wrecked," Traherne prompted sadly.

"I'm afraid we can't offer to repair the damage for you," the Raja said, shaking his head.

"I'm afraid not, sir," the doctor answered grimly.

"A wonderful machine!" the Raja said enthusiastically. "Yes, Europe has something to boast of. I wonder what the priest here thinks of it?" He turned with a laugh, and beckoned Yatok, and they spoke together in their own tongue. "He says," he translated, "it is the great ro— the giant bird, you know, of our Eastern stories. And he declared that he plainly saw his Goddess hovering over you as you descended, and guiding you towards her temple."

"I wish she could have guided us towards the level ground I saw behind your castle," Traherne said grimly. "I could have made a safe landing there."

"No doubt," the Raja nodded; "on my parade ground—almost the only level spot in my domains."

"These, I suppose," Mrs. Crespin, as she joined them, "are your body-guard?"

"My household troops, Madam," she replied with a bow.

"How picturesque they are!" she exclaimed.

The Raja laughed. "Oh," he said easily, "a relic of barbarism, I know. I can quite understand the contempt with which my friend the Major is at this moment regarding them."

"Irregular troops, Raja," Crespin said; "often first-class fighting men."

"And you think," the Raja said quickly, "that irregularity is the virtue of irregular troops, these—what is the expression, Watkins?"

"Tyke the cyke, Your Highness," the expatriated cockney supplied.

"That's it—take the cake—that's what you think, Major."

"Well," Crespin owned, "they would be hard to beat, sir."

"I repeat," the ruler said gravely, "a relic of barbarism. You see, I have strong conservative instincts—I cling to the fashions of my fathers—and my people would be resile if I didn't. I maintain these fellows as his Majesty the King-Emperor keeps up the Beef-eaters in the Tower. But I also like to move with the times as perhaps you will allow me to show you." He lifted the silver whistle that hung at his coat, and blew on it two short blasts.

Instantly from behind every rock and shrub there emerged a soldier, garbed in spick and span European uniform, faultlessly armed with the latest brand of magazine rifle. They saluted their prince, and then stood at attention.

"Good Lord!" and Crespin added an involuntary whistle, and Traherne also involuntarily gasped.

"Hello!" But if the Englishwoman shared their amazement she did not show it. The Raja of Rukh said to her concernedly, "I trust I did not startle you, Madam?"

Snook scratched his nose as he entered the room. His bald pate glistened under the brilliant overhead lights. His hips were dry and he moistened them.

No Statement

He made no last statement, and nothing was said to him.

He was garbed in a blue serge suit, his own, with white shirt and no tie. The shirt was open at the throat. He sat down calmly and closed his eyes.

Guards began adjusting the straps. Snook kept his eyes closed as the black, leather death mask was slipped over his face. Then the guards stepped back. Deputy Warden J. C. Woodard, officiating for Warden P. E. Thomas, who was ill, tapped a cane on the floor.

A red light glowed over Snook's head and the next instant 1900 volts of electricity tore through his body.

Pronounced Dead

The body jerked forward but straps restrained it. The hands clinched, then the body relaxed with the fists still doubled.

The current was turned off. Then another bolt, of lesser intensity, was sent through the body. A few seconds later, at 7:10, the prison physician pronounced him dead. Five other doctors examined him before the decree was announced.

Snook was a mere shadow of the ruddy, smiling professor of veterinary medicine who was arrested last summer after Theora's body was found.

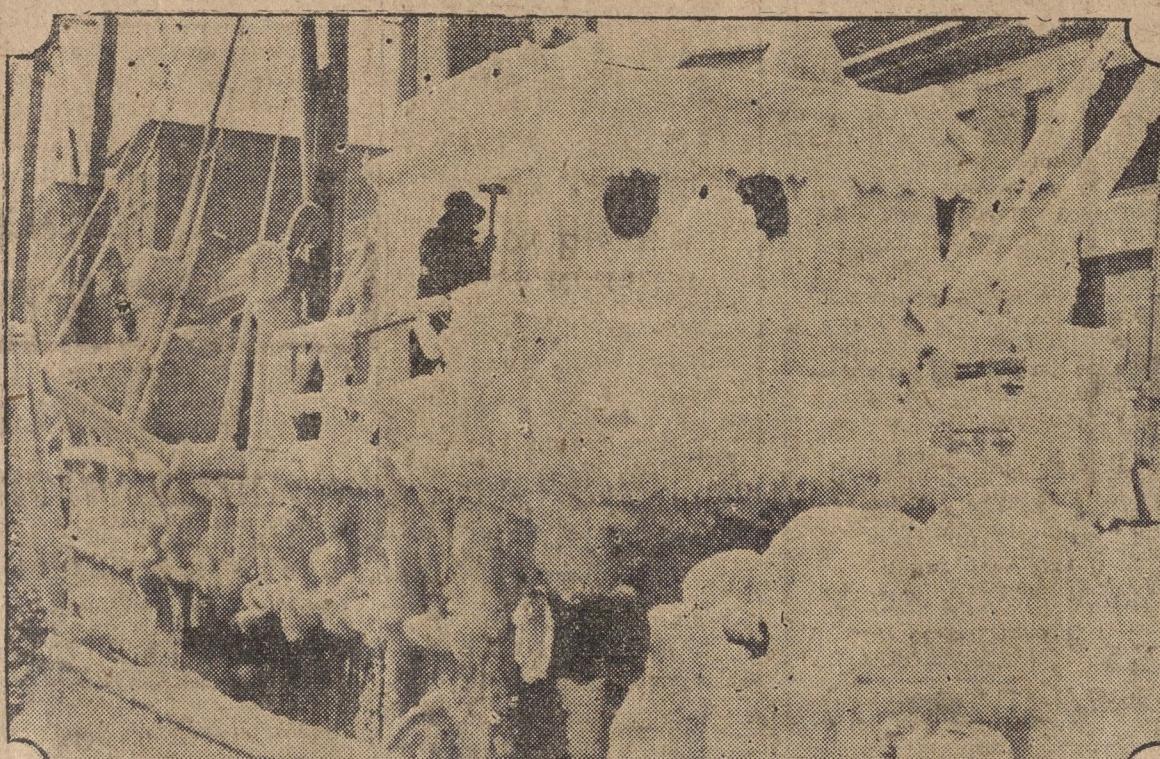

The ruddy lights accentuated his sallow complexion. His arms and hands were thin and his hands so emaciated that they appeared gaunt.

HOLLYWOOD STARS PAY HOMAGE AT BIER OF MABEL NORMAND

The service consisted only of a brief prayer read by Father Michael J. Mullin of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Beverly Hills.

Later, with only the family and a few close friends present, Father Mullins said a final prayer in the flower-decked chapel at Mt. Calvary cemetery. There again, some 200 persons had gathered.

Lew Cody, husband of Miss Normand, was sobbing as he entered the cemetery chapel with her mother, Mrs. Mary Normand. His head was bowed and tears dimmed his eyes. The mother, who arrived here this morning after an arduous interrupted train journey, seemed stunned and displayed no emotion.

Colony Mourns

The actress' sister, Miss Gladys Norman, who bears a striking resemblance to Mabel, wept freely.

Ever since Mabel Normand died early Sunday, succumbing to tuberculosis which had joined with other tragedies to end a great career, Hollywood had mourned.

Today, the services were of the utmost simplicity and private, yet those who had known Miss Normand in her days of struggle, being present.

Star Present

Roscoe Arbuckle, who was just an unknown comedian when Miss Normand was an extra girl in the Mary Pickford company, was one of the first to arrive at the funeral parlors. Charlie Chaplin, then an unknown, too, and Mack Sennett, under whose direction Miss Normand made her greatest pictures, soon joined him.

Polly Moran was crying unreservedly and Kate Price sobbed as they took their places.

Before them in an alcove the actress' body was contained in a silver and bronze casket. It was closed and was covered with a heavy blanket of lillies of the valley and maden hair fern.

Many Flowers

Directly behind was a large bronze Catholic cross and on each side two stately cathedral candles cast down their soft light.

The alcove was a veritable garden of flowers. There were so many gorgeous offerings that some were placed in a second chapel. Others had been taken to the cemetery in advance.

Miss Normand was dressed in a beautiful gown of a delicate orchid. It was trimmed with deep cream lace and she wore brocaded white silk slippers. In her hands was clasped a white gold and pearl Rosary.

None except the family viewed the body and they earlier in the week.

Doug, Mary There

When Father Mullins took his place in the alcove and softly intoned prayer, there were many famous personages in the chapel.

Among them were Douglas Fairbanks and his wife, Mary Pickford, Constance Talmadge and her husband, Townsend Nettie, Sid Grauman, Jean Hersholz, King Vidor, Frank Campeau, Ruth Roland, Marie Dressler, D. W. Griffith, Maurice Costello, Creighton Hale.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channel of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and in the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.
